BIT OF RAIN, AND FOG BLOCKADE

LUCANIA SENDS WIRELESS WORD THAT SHE CAN'T GET IN.

Carpathia With Her Outside the Hook, and Probably the St. Paul. Too-Southerly Wind Drives the Smoke Out of Town. but Piles Up Fog Over the Water.

It rained last night, just a little; but it was the first rain since May 22, and there is a promise of more to-day A southerly wind from the regions of rain banished the odor of burning wood from this neighborhood yesterday, and the sun shone at times as it does normally on an ordinary day in June. The rain came at 10 P. M.

Dense fog on the coast was one of the accompaniments of the change of weather. The atmosphere of the city is often quite different from that of the waters of the Hay and sea. A high rampart of fog and smoke and dust hid everything affoat below the Narrows after 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning, while the blue sky was showing itself over the town

The steamship Kroonland of the Rec Star Line was seen at 11:30 passing the Hook, carving a course to Antwerp. Then the mist curtain was rung down and it stayed down until 6:10, when it went up long enough to let the Sandy Hook marine observer see the Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis passing out, bound for London.

The Minneapolis reported to the Marconi folks by wireless that the Cunarder Lucania, from Liverpool and Queenstown, had been anchored outside the bar since 2 P. M. Earlier in the day the Scandinavian-American steamship Hekla, in from Copenhagen, had reported the Lucania and the new Cunarder Carpathia at anchor and the new Cunarder Carpathia at anchor off the Hook

The Hekla, drawing only about 18 feet, could afford to cut across the swash, regardless of fogs and buoys. Capt. McKay of the Lucania. which draws 28 feet or more, doubtless had heard by wireless of the mishap of the outgoing Deutschland and deemed it prudent not to risk getting into the same plight, so he staved outside.

The Carpathia, also a deep draught ship, The Carpathia, also a deep draught ship, lingered outside for the same reason.

The American liner St. Paul, reported off Nantucket in the early morning, was due at Sandy Hook before sunset and probably was among the fleet at anchor there.

Mr Pierre Lorillard was one of a large number of folks awaiting the arrival of the Lucania. His wife is a passenger.

NEW CARPATHIA HERE.

18,000-Ton Cunarder for Second and Third Cabin Passengers Only.

The new Cunarder Carpathia, a twinscrew measuring 13,555 tons and carrying only second and third class passengers, arrived vesterday from Liverpool, anchoring outside the bar in the mist and smoke. She recently made a trip to Boston. This is her first appearance in this port. Features of the third-class compartment are smoking and ladies' rooms and four-berth and two-berth rooms, with conveniences usually found in the second cabins of ordinary liners. The Carpathia will sail for Queenstown and Liverpool on Tuesday afternoon.

COLLISION IN THE SMOKE. Steamship Hits a Schooner at Vineyard Haven-Passengers Hurt.

WOODS HOLE, Mass., June 6 .- The steam ship Martha's Vineyard, which left Vineyard Haven at 8:30 o'clock this morning. collided in coming out of the harbor with the fishing schooner Senator Salisbury, lying at anchor. Many passengers had narrow escapes, but only one was injured seriously. A dense smoke prevailed and the steamer was under half speed. The steamer's bow struck the schooner forward.

The bowsprit of the fisherman raked the steamer, carrying away both the upper and lower decks back to the paddlebox. The fore rigging of the schooner be-came entangled in the wreckage and was carried away.

Russell Hancock of Chilmark, a passenger other passengers, unable to escape the sweep of the schooner's bowsprit, were wounded painfully. The vessels fell apart almost immediately after the collision and the steamer, was injured badly, and

I have been here two days and can assure you that there are no forest fires now burning within from five to ten miles of Lake Placid. The Adirondack Lodge, which burned last Wednesday, is ten miles from Lake Placid. The mountains around Lake Placid are unharmed. There is no feeling of danger in this section now, and I am told that the fires are receding in the entire Adirondack region. There was no wind here yesterday and there is none to-day. Not a building in Lake Placid has been burned or seriously GEORGE H. DANIELS. threatened.

WILL ATTEMPT TO MAKE RAIN. Prof. Myers Getting His Apparatus in

Shape to Operate on Dr. Webb's Preserve. Utica, June 6.-Arrangements have been completed between Prof. Carl E. Myers, aeronautic engineer of Frankfort, and Major E. M. Burns, representing Dr. W. Seward Webb, whereby Prof. Myers on Tuesday or Wednesday next will attempt to induce a fall of rain over Dr. Webb's preserve at Nehasane, in the Adirondacks. Prof. Myers and his corps of assistants are working night and day getting the rainmaking apparatus in shape. The professor is having constructed two balloon bombs, one 10 feet and the other 12 feet in diameter The smaller one will hold a little over 500 cubic feet, and the large one about 500 cubic feet, and the large one about 1,000 feet of explosive gas. The twelve-fcot bomb is the size used in experiments made for the Government.

In a conversation on the subject of producing rain, Prof. Myers said that a lower altitude in a hilly country from which to send up the balloons which carry the explosives is preferable. The atmosphere is denser and there is more opportunity for a succession of concussions in what is commonly known as echoes. This was demonstrated in Texas, where the earth's surface was flat and there was no echo or rebounding of the air put in motion as compared with other places which were mountainous or hilly. For the same reason the noise produced in Texas was much less than in duced in Texas was much less than in Washington with the same amount of

Washington with the same amount of explosive

The professor says that the area ordinarily affected by the detonations is hard to determine in Washington it was five miles square, while in the West it covered three States Because one can never tell when it is going to rain it is difficult to say how much rain the detonations produce But this he knew—that rain always followed the efforts to produce it.

The experiments at Nehasane next week will be watched with great interest, inasmuch as many drought-stricken localities will give the professor jobs if he produces results at Dr. Webb's park

Forest Fires Close to Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, June 6.—The forest fires have come close to this city The woods near Constantia are afire, and a fierce fire is reported at West Munroe. The sun has not been seen for two days owing to the smoke, and a haze is over everything. At the local weather station to-day it was said there were no indications of rain

Smoke Causes Railroad Wreck.

FISHRILL LANDING, N. Y., June 6 .-Because of the dense smoke prevailing here there was a serious wreck in the New Haven Railroad yard this morning. Two heavy freight trains were entering the yard from the cast. One stood on the treatle, with an engine as pusher. Another train with the engine in the rear crashed into it. The engineer and fireman on the standing train jumped and saved their lives. Two cars of the moving train telescoped. The engine of the first train was thrown into the river to clear the track. to clear the track. The engineer says he could not see the signals on account of the thick smoke from the forest fires.

SUBWAY WAGES DISCUSSED. Settlement Reached Regarding Unions Represented in the C. F. U.

The arbitration board of the Rapid Transit Contractors' Association and the Central Federated Union met yesterday in the office of General Contractor John B. McDonald and discussed a rearrangement of the wage scale.

Several unions asked for an advance of wages. The Rock Drillers' and Tool Sharpeners' Union wanted an advance of 25 cents a day, to $3. The House Shorers' and Movers' Union and the Pipe Calkers' and Tappers' Union also asked for an increase of wages and got until July 1 to show that the wages they asked were the prevailing rate. This ruling also applied to the Team Drivers' Union and the three organizations agreed to the conditions.

It was agreed that all the other trades embraced in the old agreement, numbering about twenty, should remain at work under the present conditions until the subway work is finished.

Representatives of the Rockmen and Excavators' Union, whose members are on strike, waited outside. They said they were told by former Coroner Zucca that they could all go back to work at $1.50 a day for eight hours. This was found to be a misunderstanding.

Where there are vacancies, strikers can return to work on these terms. The contractors were represented at the conference by W. C. Douglas, secretary: Contractors E. J. Farrell, William Bradley, George W. McNulty and Michael J. Degnon. The C. F. U. was represented by John J. Pallas, James J. Holland and Matthew McConville. Several unions asked for an advance

The operators say they must be certain that the three men chosen represent the majority and are responsible, so that there will be no danger of the Mine Workers repudiating any action they may take as members of the conciliation board.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 6.—W. L. Connell, one of the members of the conciliation board, was asked to-day whether the credentials of Messrs. Nichols, Dettry and Fahey would be accepted if the men were elected members of the board by the miners at the coming convention. He said:

It was suggested to Mr. Connell that the convention would be made up of members of the United Mine Workers' organization, but he said that was of no concern, providing they represented the majority of the miners.

UNION MEN HUSTLED AWAY. Girls in the Lowell Mills Resent an Attempt to Get Them Out

union pickets entered one of the mills to work among the non-union help, and were all but set upon by the girls at work there. They were hustled from the building by the overseers.

The union operatives, backed by the Textile Council, stoutly declare that the mills are giving out exaggerated figures. Still, it is beyond dispute that hundreds have renounced unionism and accepted the mills' wage scale instead. The beamers, carders, ringspinners and weavers had meetings yesterday. To get the sentiment of the beamer members in such a way as to prevent any intimation of influence, a secret ballot was taken on the strike question. When the votes were counted it developed that the organization is still unanimously in favor of remaining out.
